

LAW DAY 2025

THE CONSTITUTION'S PROMISE: OUT OF MANY, ONE

WHAT: Federal Court Judges, Law Clerks, and Local Practicing Attorneys will engage your students in an interactive presentation and discussion about constitutional issues and caselaw that have shaped our representative government.

WHERE: Our speakers will come to your school or you can schedule a visit to the Federal Courthouse in Syracuse. Space is limited for Courthouse visits and will be granted on a first-come, first-serve basis.

WHEN: Law “Day” begins on May 1, 2025, and will be celebrated all month long. Requests for school visits in the months of April and May will be accommodated based on your school’s needs and the Court’s schedule.

WHO: All students in Grades 9 to 12 are welcome to participate.

DEADLINE TO RESPOND IS MARCH 31, 2025.

If you are interested, please email NYND_Outreach@nynd.uscourts.gov as soon as possible for more information and visit our Court Outreach page.

We will send you a questionnaire to determine your school’s unique needs and do our best to accommodate all requests.

E pluribus unum: “Out of many, one.”

The Preamble to the Constitution boldly asserts that the Framers established the Constitution as representatives of “We the People, in Order to Form a More Perfect Union.” On this Law Day, we explore and renew our duties to one another under the Constitution and our democratic norms. The Constitution establishes a framework for government that unites us as one citizenry, through means such as our representative government, jury service, and a regular Census. And through this commitment to our Union, we each provide for the common good through government responses to national crises and natural disasters, and through community and advocacy programs for students and adults.
